

MARI HALL © 2021

"Fractal Winter Mercy" was painted during the darkest days of winter 2020. The air was frigid outside, the days so horribly short, the light leaving so early in the day. It was a long year of upset and death and misery in the USA as we stared down the COVID19 pandemic with brave faces. The light that shone most brightly was the celebration of Christmas, the birth of Jesus Christ who brings light back into the world, our hearts strengthened by His message of love and peace and tolerance.
